App versus Program

- An app is software that directly helps a user perform tasks.
- Programs are built to work on a single or a dedicated platform.
- Apps are developed to work on more than one platform.
- A program needs an installer that already has a package consisting of necessary files. (DLL files)
- An app is a single file that you download and install on your computer.
- A program with a user-interface is an application, but many programs are not applications.

The image shows the homepage of the Malwarebytes website. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the Malwarebytes logo on the left and links for 'Personal', 'Business', 'Pricing', 'Partners', 'Resources', and 'Support' in the center. On the right side of the navigation bar, there are links for 'CONTACT US', 'COMPANY', and 'SIGN IN', along with a prominent yellow 'FREE DOWNLOAD' button. Below the navigation bar is a large blue hero section with the headline 'Cybersecurity that crushes what others don't'. Underneath the headline, there are two columns: 'Personal' (with a person icon) and 'Business' (with a building icon). Each column contains a brief description of the service and a yellow button ('FREE DOWNLOAD' for Personal, 'CONTACT SALES' for Business) followed by a link to 'Explore Products' with a right-pointing arrow. At the bottom of the page, there is a light blue section with three columns of text, each followed by a right-pointing arrow: 'Malwarebytes expands into privacy with fast, frictionless VPN', 'Work from home securely', and 'Malware ramps up during the Coronavirus pandemic'.
